

Getting Started Guide

A quick walkthrough for setting up your company on RFQ Hub

Welcome to RFQ Hub! You've been invited to set up your own company account on the platform. This guide walks you through everything you need to get your first Request for Quotation (RFQ) live — from activating your account to inviting contractors and reviewing their submissions.

RFQ Hub gives your company its own branded space to create RFQs, manage contractor invitations, and track submissions — all in one place, independent of any other company on the platform.

In this guide

- Step 1 — Activate your account
- Step 2 — Log in
- Step 3 — Set up your company profile
- Step 4 — Create your first RFQ
- Step 5 — Track your RFQs
- Step 6 — Review submissions
- Step 7 — Invite your team
- Open vs. Closed RFQs — what's the difference?
- Need help?

STEP 1 Activate Your Account

You'll receive an email invitation to join RFQ Hub. Click the link in that email — it will open RFQ Hub with your account already recognised, and prompt you to choose a password.

- Enter a password (at least 6 characters) and confirm it.
- Click “Set Password & Continue.”
- You'll be taken straight into your company dashboard — no separate sign-up step required.

STEP 3 Set Up Your Company Profile

Your dashboard is organised into sections listed down the left-hand side — Create RFQ, RFQ Console, Review Submissions, Team, and Settings. Before creating your first RFQ, open Settings and add your company details. This information appears on every RFQ link and submission page you send to contractors, so it's worth getting right from the start.

- Upload your company logo (PNG, JPG, SVG or WebP — it uploads immediately). It shows up both here and next to your company name at the top of your dashboard.
- Confirm your company name.
- Add a contact email, phone number, and address so contractors know how to reach you.

Field guide

Field	Required?	What it's for
RFQ Name/Title	Required	A short, clear title, e.g. “Safety Equipment Quotes.”
Project Name	Required	The project this RFQ relates to.
Description	Required	Details of what you're looking for.
Province	Required	The province the work/supply relates to — also used by the province filter on the public portal.
Town / Area	Optional	A more specific location within the province.

Submission Deadline	Required	The date and time contractors must submit by.
Budget	Optional	An indicative budget. If provided, it's shown to contractors on the RFQ page.
Visibility	Required	Open (listed on the public portal) or Closed (invite-only) — see below.
Required Documents	Required	The document types contractors must submit, e.g. Company Registration, Tax Clearance, Proof of Insurance.
Attach RFQ Document(s)	Optional	Upload specs, drawings, or other files for contractors to download before applying.
Contractor Email Addresses	Required for Closed RFQs	One email per line. Each contractor gets a personal invite link, sent automatically by email.

Open vs. Closed RFQs

When you create an RFQ, you choose whether it's Open or Closed. This controls who can see and apply to it.

Visibility	What happens
Closed — Invite Only	Only reachable via the invite links you send. Not listed anywhere public. Contractor email addresses are required.
Open — Public Portal	Listed on the public “Open RFQs” portal for anyone to find and apply to, with your company logo and name shown. Contractor email addresses are optional — you can still invite specific people in addition to the public listing.

The public portal lets people filter open RFQs by province, so accurate location details help the right contractors find your listing.

Asking a contractor for more information

If a submission is missing something — a certificate, a clearer figure, an extra document — open it and choose “Request More Information” from the status dropdown instead of Approved/Rejected. Describe what you need, then click “Send Request.”

- The contractor receives an email with your message and a link — no login required on their side.
- They can reply with a message and upload documents directly to their existing submission.
- The submission's status updates automatically (Info Requested → Response Received) so you can see at a glance who you're waiting on.
